Description.

Originally designed as service robots to assist in other-world mining operations, these robots were tapered with by the scientist Taren Capel in order to change their programming so they were no longer peaceful servants, but ruthless killers.

Although designed to look like humans Robots of Death have metallic green emotionless faces, which gives them a statuette like appearance. Their weapon is their hands, with which they strangle or beat enemies to death.

Robots of Death have highly advanced armour plated 'skin' that provides them with a good defence against attack.
